For Immediate Release:

Grant County Health Department to Offer School Based H1N1 Clinics

In addition to already scheduled clinics and daily office hours Monday through Friday (excluding holidays), the Grant County Health Department will be offering free H1N1 flu vaccines in Grant County schools starting in January 2010. Interested parents should watch for consent forms to be sent home with children beginning on January 4, 2010. Clinics will be scheduled after consent forms have been received back and actual dates will be based on demand, staffing, vaccine supplies, and weather conditions.

Parents who do not want to wait for school based clinics have the option of attending a scheduled clinic or seeking an alternate source for H1N1 flu immunizations. To avoid potential confusion, Grant County Health Department asks parents that will be taking their children to a clinic outside of the school to not return a consent slip to the school.

More information on 2009 H1N1 and seasonal influenza including clinic locations and times can be found by visiting www.co.grant.wi.gov (using the quick link on the right side of the page) or by calling (608) 723-6416.
